Gokulam Dacoity
Cops get vital clues

Mysuru, June 29 (RK&BCT)- All the seven persons who had barged into the office of a businessman and looted Rs. 29,66,840 lakh cash in the upmarket Gokulam locality on June 23 were locals. The V.V. Puram Police have obtained vital clues about the dacoits and the arrest will be made in a day or two. Police sources said that an insider was also involved in the dacoity.

It may be recalled here that on June 23, at around 11.45 am, the gang entered the office of Naveen Kumar Gupta, proprietor of Kyathi Steel Company based in Thandya in Nanjangud Taluk. The office is located at Gokulam 3rd Stage (4th Main, 9th Cross near Vidyavardhaka Engineering College). The company has its head office at Yadavagiri and the Gokulam office was opened to make payments to transport operators and traders of steel scrap.

After gaining entry, the dacoits told office manager Vinod Kumar and scrap trader Shafi that they were CBI officers and demanded the keys of the shelves and cupboards. When the staff refused and instead asked them to show their ID cards, the miscreants thrashed the staff. They forcibly took the keys and made away with Rs. 29,66,840 lakh that was kept in a cupboard. They also took away the hard disk that had recorded CCTV visuals.

Investigating the case, the V.V. Puram Police found out that all the culprits involved in the robbery were locals. Police sources said that the gang had definite information about the cash that was kept in a particular cupboard. "We know who committed the crime and they will be arrested in a day or two," said the sources.

The Police are sure about the involvement of an insider who passed on the information about the cash to the gang. Manager Vinod Kumar had brought Rs. 35 lakh cash from the Yadavagiri head office to his Gokulam office a day before the crime. Sources said only scrap traders, lorry owners, the office manager and other staff knew the presence of cash.

The special investigation team is headed by V.V. Puram Inspector C.V. Ravi and City Crime Branch (CCB) Inspector C. Raju.

To eat or not to eat

Government is on safe track as long as its actions conform to the country's Constitution framework. The amendments made during the many governments of the land so far to its text reflect its inadequacy in setting the track initially. Issues relating to food of the country's population, given its diversity on various counts including and apart from traditions as well as customs of different sections of society, don't seem to have figured in the script explicitly, specially issues of their food preferences. In that context, the recent episodes of intervention by the top brass in the Union Government as well as some State governments into the tricky area of food habits of people has generated only heat in the land, a fallout that could have been prevented by deft handling of the matter. Foremost factor that let the genie out of the bottle as it were was to bring the controversy into the open, forgetting that one person's food is another's poison, although 'poison' is not to be taken literally.

Both carnivores (meat eaters) and herbivores (vegetarians) are conditioned in their choice of food by many obvious factors, most importantly a) accessibility and b) affordability. Only after these conditions get fulfilled, the remaining factors such as preference, traditions, customs, constraints, fascination, taste, suitability to health, desire, craze, compulsions and so on rule the roost. Thus, food, like love, is many-splendoured and, therefore, the issues relating to food deserve to be handled with care and maturity.

Knowledge on food concerning its every conceivable aspect generated to this day is too vast to permit anybody to claim its comprehensive understanding flawlessly. Even the term balanced diet, like the army uniform, fits all in general (on an average) but no one in particular. The mark of intelligence, unarguably, is one's ability to formulate a diet not only for delighting one-self but also to sustain one's health. It is incongruous, therefore, for any authority in the government, to snatch the freedom of individuals to decide for themselves, both carnivores and herbivores, what they eat or don't eat. The crux of the currently raging controversy hurting that freedom is that some sections of the herbivores cannot stomach the food habits of the carnivores, specially their choice of animals as the source of meat.

In short, the current scenario of food habits of the land's diaspora has witnessed turbulence due to emotion and sentiment stumping the spirit of accommodation and mutual acceptance of people in deciding what to eat or not to eat. The Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI), a statutory body under FSS Act, has discreetly stayed aloof from the turbulence, in addition to facing the public perception of the Act remaining only on paper, as per a Mysuru-based report published in a section of the press this week.

SHAPING INDIA'S FUTURE: It is easier to build strong children than to mend broken men — this quote by African-American social reformist Fredrick Douglass has never rung more true than the present times. While preparing a child to be a global citizen and an achiever in adult life, somehow the fact that he is a child who may find it difficult to cope with a demanding life at that age, is often overshadowed. Teachers today are not just imparters of knowledge, they are also mentors and counsellors who need to be armed with skills to detect signs of early depression, aggression, and destructive and other kinds of negative or harmful behaviour. This insight will equip them better in motivating and counselling children who face communication gaps, so that they can get the necessary support for soaring over such troubles.

Five-storey building with road on its roof

Beijing: Photos of a five-storey building in the Chinese city of Chongqing have been going viral on social media, for the simple fact that the building in question has a flat roof that also doubles as a road that cars actually drive on.

The newest addition to Chongqing's portfolio of quirky architecture is a five-storey building with a terraced roof that doubles as a single-lane public road. Photos of the unusual sight were first posted on China's version of Twitter, last Wednesday, and quickly went viral. After a subsequent journalistic investigation revealed that the roof road actually has a very practical explanation.

The Beijing Youth Daily newspaper visited the unique building and talked to the security guards there, who said that the road was created to help residents reach their homes easier.

The five-storey building is built on the side of a hill and is actually the indoor parking of an apartment complex higher up the side of the hill. Plus, the roof is fitted with noise reduction materials, so hardly any the sounds of the cars driving on it get through.

Aging wine on the bottom of the Sea

Paris: Two years ago, a wine-makers' association in France dropped 120 bottles of red, white and rosé wine at an undisclosed location in the Mediterranean Sea, as part of an experiment to see if sea bed aging yields better results than traditional cellar aging.

To stage their experiment, the winemakers of "Les vins de Bandol" partnered with France's National School of Divers, to ensure that their precious cargo was handled properly during the submersion process. The bottles were submerged in a honeycomb-like container and then placed in a large coffer for long-term preservation.

The exact location of the wine has not been disclosed, for fear of curious "pirates" with a taste for fine wine. At the same time, 120 bottles of the exact same wines were placed in a land cellar, to act as a control sample.

Jewellery shopping:
Suggestion to shop owners

Sir,

Recently I visited a few well-known jewellers of our city with my wife to purchase a gold chain for her daily use. Once we entered the jewellery shop (surprisingly in all shops!!) we got a happy welcome from the gate-keeper who showed few empty chairs to occupy.

Once we took our seat, the sales executive attended to us asking for our need. I observed another person stood beside him and the real story began. My wife started asking for different designs and the executive started getting various designs while the other guy started staring at us and closely monitoring our actions!!

We had a feeling that each of our actions were looked with different reactions (even my bending down to tighten my shoe lace). The result was we could not have a free mind to ask for much more options and we came out nicely rejecting their tea/coffee/juice treatment.

I remembered the olden days (may be 20-25 years ago) where we used to visit the jewellery shops and the owner came running greeting us with a smile and made us comfortable asking about our recent happenings in the family. We had all the freedom to take any ornaments we liked with a request to have a wearing experience. There was no fear for him of losing his jewellery instead he was feeling happy for visiting his shop, having a good chat with him and his team.

Today they are not worried about how many customers visited their shops and what is the volume of their sales but I could see a sigh of relief in their eyes that they have not lost anything by our visit !

My sincere appeal to all jewellery shops is to have a verification counter at the entrance itself and make the identity verification (as we have security check in the airports!!) with Aadhaar card, ID card or address proof and let them be allowed to go with their freedom of 'happy shopping' without a feeling of 'trialled prisoners.'

I always preferred to go to small shops of jewelleries with the known owners for a happy shopping time and now my wife also agrees to it. A long pending dispute resolved for ever ! I am happy. Thanks to international establishments!

NOTE: The correspondent seems oblivious to the changing market economy in the world of gold and diamond jewellery. Old order is changing yielding place to new in marketing goods and services. The small kirana shops of convenience do exist in residential areas along with big malls like Walmart or here in city Big Bazar, Loyal World and the like with their own protocol for reasons of security and theft despite CCTV etc. Did we ever think travelling by air would be so laborious, tiring and humiliating as it is today? Wisdom lies in co-operating with the shop-keepers if we need their service.

Manual scavenging: Chamundi Hill GP President dismissed

Mysuru, June 29- The Karnataka Rural Development and Panchayat Raj yesterday issued orders to dismiss Chamundi Hill Gram Panchayat President S. Geetha for allegedly forcing a civic worker to clean a manhole in Tavarakatte village, falling under the Panchayat limits on June 7.

Geetha

On that day, Geetha and Panchayat Development Officer (PDO) Anand allegedly forced a civic worker to climb down a manhole that was full with sewage. They asked Pourakarmika Ganesh to get inside the overflowing manhole in front of Geetha's house at Thavarekere village.

Ganesh, working on contract basis, was threatened by Geetha that he would be sacked if he failed to clean the manhole. Photos and videos of Ganesh getting into the manhole were circulated widely in the media.

The incident had sparked outrage and an FIR was registered at Krishnaraja Police Station. PDO Anand was suspended and the FIR was registered by D.G. Gurushanthappa, Assistant Director, Social Welfare Department, Nazarbad.

The complaint was filed for criminal intimidation and for violations of the Prohibition of Employment as Manual Scavengers Act which prohibits local authorities from employing humans to clear sewer lines and septic tanks. All of these offences could attract jail terms of two years.

Following the incident, ZP Chief Executive Officer (CEO) P. Shivashankar had recommended the State Government for dismissal of the President for violating the Karnataka Gram Swaraj and Panchayat Raj Act, 1993.

An official in the Mysuru Zilla Panchayat said that the orders issued on Geetha's dismissal had been communicated to ZP CEO through an e-mail. The hard copy of the order is yet to reach by post, the official added. Geetha is missing from her house and the K.R. Police are on the lookout for her.

Meanwhile, former Mayor and former Chairman of Karnataka Safai Karmachari Commission M. Narayan has welcomed the Government move to dismiss Geetha.

"This is a warning to elected representatives and officers who take Pourakarmikas for granted and ask them to do inhuman jobs such as these," he said.

Sand will also be made available for the construction of toilets as the District Administration is aiming to make the district open-defecation-free by March 2018, he said.

Pointing out that some 52,000 houses are under construction in various parts of the district, he said the District Administration will take necessary measures to ensure that sand is supplied on priority to Government housing projects.

High-speed rail: Germany to study Chennai-Bengaluru-Mysuru route

New Delhi, June 29- Railways has roped in Germany to undertake feasibility study for running high-speed trains on the southern corridor. A high-level German delegation from Germany will conduct feasibility study on Chennai-Bengaluru-Mysuru section for running the high-speed train. Germany will also bear the expenditure for the study, said a senior Railway Ministry official.

Railway officials have discussed with the German team about raising speed on one of the existing line to 200 km per hour. A meeting was held in this regard in New Delhi yesterday where senior officials discussed various issues involving running high speed train, raising speed on the existing track and redevelopment of stations. Railways also requested Germany to undertake a study of one station for renovation/ redevelopment

The German expertise in the field of high-speed rail, increasing speed of existing routes, station development, multi-modal logistics terminal and automobile logistics are of interest to India.

Semi-high speed train between Chennai and Bengaluru can reduce the travel time between two cities to less than three hours and would need an investment of over Rs. 4,500 crore to convert the existing tracks to run trains at 160 kmph. It takes 7 hours now to reach Chennai in Shatabdi Express. According to railways, Mysore-Bengaluru-Chennai is the toughest section due to difficult terrain and hills especially the Mysore-Bengaluru route.

Stray dog menace on the rise in city

Mysuru, June 29 (DVG&NNN)- The menace of stray dogs is increasing by the day in many localities in the city causing concern for the public. In most of the areas in the outskirts and even in thickly populated areas it is a frightening sight to see pack of dogs on the prowl and sometimes waiting to attack the passersby.

One such area where the dog menace is increasing is in Arvindnagar. The street dogs are found in plenty in SBM Colony and Shiva Temple and surrounding areas. In these areas regularly Dasohas (serving of food) take place in the Shiva Temple and in the Samudaya Bhavans (choultries). Since the food waste is disposed off in the nearby garbage bins, the dogs gather to consume leftover food and they start attacking the passersby.

In the evenings, the residents of these areas find it very difficult to move around freely. In the beginning, there were very few stray dogs here. Gradually their numbers increased. If one comes for walks with a pet dog, the stray dogs attack it in packs. As a result, the dog owners feel scared to take their dogs out.

There are also pani puri and food stalls in some of the streets here and when the children, women and elders come to eat, they get scared looking at the dogs.

Even when one goes for morning walks in areas like sprawling Vijayanagar Layout, Yadavagiri, Kuvempunagar, Bannimantap Layout, J.P. Nagar, the dog menace is on the rise. Dogs are seen moving in packs even in the morning and the walkers at that hour have to always be on guard as dogs, sometimes more than ten in number, could attack.

As a result, Star of Mysore gets frequent calls from the residents regarding the dog menace in their areas, fearing for the lives of their children and the aged.

Before any untoward incident happens, the Corporation should take action, demanded the public.

From past few months, Mysuru has been hit hard by dengue and for battling this disease we need more and more people to come forward and take such initiatives."

NR Group Chairman R. Guru and Director Arjun Ranga were present. Extending their support, about 300 employees donated blood, from which platelets will be extracted for dengue patients.

Decoding Mythology

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

The pea-brahmachari

At the heart of the hysteria over the peacock's tears is Hinduism's great discomfort with sex. Ever since the British made fun of Hindus for being sexual, sensual and feminine, Hindus especially have been out to prove them wrong. And, this has led to bizarre, even grotesque, manipulations of Hindu lore, the most recent being the public declaration that peacocks reproduce not via sex but via tears. It mirrors the famous story of how a drop of Hanuman's sweat, rendered potent by his celibacy, had the power to make a fish pregnant.

The story of the peacock's chastity is told to explain why Krishna wears the peacock feather on his crown. By extension, celibate gurus in India are telling their disciples that Krishna's love for Radha is pure, transcendental and asexual. It has nothing to do with the body; it is only about the heart and the soul. Never mind the eroticism of Gita Govinda of Jayadeva, where Radha is first introduced to Hinduism. The gurus insist that this is merely allegorical. Only dirty minds think otherwise.

It is not by accident that many political posters shy away from showing Krishna with Radha, Shiva with Parvati, Ram with Sita, in their posters; they prefer to show the male gods in splendid isolation, preferably with a weapon in hand (discus, trident or bow). This sex-negative approach is the root of why women who wish to celebrate their body and their beauty are slut-shamed. And, men with sexual desires for women are being asked to channelise their virility into patriotic activities like protecting cows like a 'good son.' Sounds corny, but that is the logic. In this worldview, body is bad, sex is bad, desire is bad; celibacy becomes a form of passive aggression to dominate the world.

Adi Shankaracharya who opposed the Buddhist thought also mimicked their monastic ways. Likewise, Hindu supremacist groups who oppose Christian missionary activities also mimic Christian Puritanism. In the Bible, sexual awareness is seen as Original Sin, and the sexual act is bypassed when Mary becomes pregnant with Jesus. This makes her pure, venerable, a worthy vessel. In medieval times, the idea of courtly love became popular: the man idea of a knight who fights for his lady, who belongs to another. This lady in many European traditions was Mother Mary. And so the knights became celibate warrior-monks in her service. Sounds familiar?

Twelve hundred years ago, Ubhaya Bharati, wife of Mandana Mishra, challenged Adi Shankaracharya to discuss kama-shastra or the erotic arts. Shankara, though a hermit, took up the challenge. Using yogic powers, he left his own body and entered the body of the recently deceased Amaru, king of Kashmir, and educated himself in the king's harem. He then wrote the erotic treatise Amaru Shataka. The supernatural elements of the story reveal awkwardness with sexuality, but the story was never suppressed, revealing a maturity that has waned in recent times.

The idea of celibacy thrived alongside the erotic arts. Shankara the hermit did not demonise sexuality. In fact, the Sri Vidya lore introduced by him celebrates the Goddess in all her erotic splendour.

Peacock, the vehicle of the virile warlord Kartikeya, dances to delight the peahen, and to express the earth's joy at the arrival of monsoon cloud. It was once India's most famous metaphor for sexual, and simultaneously, spiritual longing. Today, celibate gurus have reduced it to a signpost of chastity, science notwithstanding.

Exorcise people from the ghost of superstition

Support Siddharamaiah whole-heartedly

In an age of reason and enlightenment, that is here and now, with man going to the moon and beyond; man increasing his longevity not by praying to Gods of different religions but by availing the present day medical miracle; man still unable to tame the nature's fury by prayers and havanas, it is time man puts an end to his obsession with God and religion. It is from this obsession practice of various kinds of superstitions originate.

This is the reason why I admire our Chief Minister Siddharamaiah. He wanted to bring a law about two years back itself to end this pernicious practice of superstition. But, many still living in the dark ages and afraid to come out into the light of reason, vehemently objected to this Bill. The Bill was provoked after the self-deprecating 'Made Snana', a disgrace to human dignity resulting from a worse kind of superstition, appeared in the media.

Yes, some say "it is a question of one's belief," leave it alone. That way the inhuman practice of 'Sati' too should be allowed under the same illogical logic. I have studied in Political Science that 'people per se do not know what they want (may be due to ignorance or fear of what they can't face in times of sickness and misfortune); therefore, it is the duty of the Government to give them what they need.' Now, our people need a law to ban all kinds of superstitions, specially those that are socially and individually dangerous, cruel, humiliating and above all useless at the end.

The Bill with a long, meandering title "The Karnataka Evil, Inhuman and Superstitious Practices Prevention and Eradication Bill, 2014" would now be introduced in its diluted form during the next session of the State Legislature, which is in November-December. I hope, no matter in what form, this Bill must be introduced and passed, passed unanimously. We can make amendments to it later to achieve our goal of liberating our society from the evil of superstition completely.

BJP, being a Hindu conservative party and Hinduism having maximum number of superstitious practices, compared to other religions and communities, may have its own reservation. But BJP should rise to the occasion, walk the path of reason and enlightenment by supporting this Bill.

No right thinking person can countenance the practice and customs such as human sacrifice, exorcism (using violent methods like beating, kicking, incinerating at different body parts, make the 'possessed person or the victim' sit on a swing across a flowing stream and then cut the ropes thus making the victim plunge into the water), black magic, witchcraft, magic remedies for various ailments, aghori, made snana (circumambulating the temple or sanctum sanctorum rolling half-naked over the leaves with left-over food after the meal with the belief it would cure some diseases and God will fullfil the wishes of the performer of 'Made Snana'), self-flagellation as a ritual (this ritual of self-inflicting injuries is found in a non-Hindu religion also), throwing of an infant from a height on a bed of thorns (similar to the practice in Sparta, Greece, where the new-born is left on top a hill over-night), parading women in the nude, Devadasi tradition of Hindu temples, sexual intercourse to invoke supernatural powers (Tantra meditation), killing animals by biting their neck or sucking blood from the slaughtered animals like chicken, pig, sheep etc., etc.

The rationalists are right in asking the unanswered question: Why offer in sacrifice domesticated docile animals to your Gods? Why don't you offer a lion or a tiger?

The Hindu epics are replete with such practices, however, for those days not considered superstition but a ritual to please the mighty Gods in their high Heavens. We have the classic example in Mahabharata of 'Sati' performed by Pandu's second wife Madri. I have read that when the telephone was to be introduced in Saudi Arabia, the Sheik was warned by his religious heads that it was a devilish instrument intended to harm the Sheik. The Sheik was then advised to chant certain verses from the Holy Quran from his telephone while the Mullah received the call from the other telephone. When the Mullah heard the verses in its pristine original form, the Sheik was told that there was no devil and he could have the telephone installed in his Palace.

So life goes on. To each his own belief. It is like our watches. None go alike, but each believes his own, as Alexander Pope wisely said. But then the superstitious rituals practised are a disgrace to human dignity. I wonder why this practice should not be brought under the ambit of Human Rights Commission.

Faith or ....? Practicing Made Snana.

Sincere and honest persons earn their living by sincere and honest work. Dishonest persons do so by cheating those who work and earn. To the category of dishonest parasites who thrive by cheating the credulous among honest workers belong the teachers, preachers and priests of dubious religions and cults; Mystics, Saints, Arahants and Sidhas who claim that they have acquired enlightenment through meditation or penance; Gurus, Babas, Anandas, Rishis, Swamijis and Yogis who claim that they have obtained miraculous powers through yogic practices or as boons from Gods; oracles, exorcists, charmers, sooth-sayers, fortune-tellers and all types of occultists who claim that they have developed their special powers through spiritual exercises, astrology, palmistry, numerology, telepathy, clairvoyance, telekinesis (Psychokinesis), precognition, necromancy, spirit possession etc.

Thousands of credulous spectators prostrate before the miracle-performing charlatan. Money pours in lakhs to be shared by the juggler and his agents. It is indeed a tragedy that among these crafty God-makers are some of the highly qualified scientists of that country.

Have you linked your Aadhaar with PAN card?

Here's how to do it

Almost all cyber centres in Mysuru was full with people who wanted to link Aadhaar and PAN this morning. Senior citizens and women were seen standing in long queues.

New Delhi, June 29- The government has, in a fresh notification, made it mandatory to link existing Aadhaar numbers with PAN card for tax-payers with effect from July 1.

Amending Income Tax rules and notifying them, the government has made quoting of the 12-digit biometric Aadhaar or the enrolment ID must at the time of application of Permanent Account Number (PAN).

As many as 2.07 crore tax-payers have already linked their Aadhaar with PAN. There are over 25 crore PAN card holders in the country while Aadhaar has been issued to 111 crore people. While Aadhaar is a biometric authentication issued by the UIDAI, PAN is a 10-digit alphanumeric number allotted by the I-T department to individuals and entities.

To link your Aadhaar with PAN: • Go to the e-filing website https://incometaxindiaefiling.gov.in/ and click on the tab 'Link Aadhaar' on the left-hand side of the website.

• Fill your PAN and Aadhaar number.

• Then enter your name exactly as mentioned in Aadhaar and then submit it.

• After verification of details from the Unique Identification Authority of India (UIDAI), the linking will be confirmed.

• If you are already registered on the e-filing website:

• You can link your Aadhaar after logging-in to the e-filing website https://incometaxindiaefiling.gov.in/

• Just click on Aadhaar linking option under profile settings.

• The details as per PAN will be pre-populated and you only need to enter your Aadhaar number and name exactly as mentioned in Aadhaar.

• Once you link your Aadhaar with PAN, you will be able to e-verify your Income Tax return using OTP sent to your mobile.

• If your Aadhaar name is completely different from your name in PAN, then the linking will fail and the tax-payer will be prompted to change the name in either Aadhaar or PAN database.

MCC by-poll: Training for polling officers

Public campaigning ends at 7am tomorrow

Mysuru, June 29(RKB&DM)- The public campaigning for MCC ward 32 by-poll reached its peak today, with the candidates of the 3 main political parties-Congress, BJP and JD(S) making a last minute bid to woo the voters. The public campaigning will end at 7am tomorrow. The by-poll will take place on July 2 (Sunday) between 7am and 5pm.

The ward has 10,201 voters (plus 63 postal ballots) in its rolls. EVM's (Electronic Voting Machines) will be used for the by-poll. A total of 12 booths have been set up across the ward, which comprises V.V. Mohalla, Vontikoppal and parts of Gokulam.

The mustering and de-mustering of EVMs and other poll materials will be held at Maharaja Sanskrit Pathashala near the MCC main office on Sayyaji Rao road. With hardly a couple of days left for the by-poll, a training session for first polling officers and presiding officers was held at the MCC this morning.

Congress candidate B.K. Prakash, accompanied by MLA Vasu and other congress leaders, went on a door to door campaign in Gokulam, pourakarmika colony and surrounding areas. BJP candidate K. Madesh, accompanied by City BJP President Dr. B.H. Manjunath and some party Corporators, undertook a brisk door-to-door campaign at several roads in V.V. Mohalla, Gokulam and old Vontikoppal.

JD(S) candidate SBM Manju, accompanied by Legislative Council Deputy Chairman Marithibbegowda and other party leaders and Corporators, undertook campaigning in V.V. Mohalla, CFTRI quarters, Nirmala Convent and surrounding areas.

Even as the candidates went on a brisk campaign, the people aired their civic woes and some residents even sought assurance from the candidates that the proposed waste disposal plant to be set up at Gokulam burial ground, close to the Gokulam BSNL office, be shifted elsewhere, it is learnt.

Chanakya Kalyana Mantap to be auctioned tomorrow

Mysuru, June 29- The Mysuru Taluk Tahsildar has passed an order for auctioning Chanakya Kalyana Mantap located in industrial suburb, Visveshwaranagar third phase and belonging to Chanakya Finance Corporation having office at No. 318, 1st floor, 2nd cross, Benki Nawab street in the city, as the finance company failed to return money to the depositors.

The auction will take place at 11am tomorrow (June 30). The first auction of the Kalyana Mantap had taken place on Aug. 13, 2015 in which the successful bidder was S.D. Nagaraje Urs. But as Nagaraje Urs failed to deposit 25 percent money of the bid amount, the Mantap was put up for auction once again on Sept.4, 2015. However, the second auction too failed as none of the bidders came forward to quote a price above the reserved value of the property. Now, the Kalyana Mantap is coming under the hammer for the third time tomorrow.

As Chanakya Finance Corporation, the owners of Chanakya Kalyana Mantap, failed to return the money to depositors, the aggrieved depositors moved the District Consumer Court.

The Consumer Court after hearing the case, ordered that the Chanakya Kalyana Mantap be publicly auctioned as per Section 190c of Karnataka Land Revenue Act, 1964 and Section 3(2) of Karnataka Public Money (Recovery of Dues) Act, 1979 and the money earned from the bidding be distributed amongst the aggrieved depositors.

Following the Consumer Court order, the Tahsildar's office invited written claims two times— one on May 6, 2015 and the other on July 14, 2016 giving a 15-day deadline. But as no claims were received along with supporting documents within the specified period, the Tahsildar has ordered for the auction of the Kalyana Mantap, it is learnt.

Meanwhile, Tahsildar Chandrakumar said the Chanakya Finance Corporation owed more than Rs. 35 crore to over 700 depositors. As the company failed to return the money to depositors, the aggrieved depositors moved the Consumer Court, which directed for auction after which the DC directed him to carry out the public auction.

Ashada Shukravara atop Ch'Hill

Each year, the planning and arrangements are very good and this year it is no different. The temple has been specially decorated, even as drinking water has been arranged for the vast influx of people. Barricades have been erected to regulate queues and separate arrangements have been made for the devotees who want to donate prasadams.

Th KSRTC has made special arrangements to ferry people from helipad near Lalitha Mahal Palace Hotel to the Chamundeshwari temple free of cost.

TRANSPORTATION

The entry of vehicles has been banned and those who come in their cars or two wheelers have to park their vehicles near the Helipad where all arrangements have been made to accommodate the vehicles. The buses will ply from early in the morning at 4.30 till late in the night during Ashada Shukravara days on June 30, July 7, July 14 and July 21 and also on Chamundeshwari Vardhanthi on July 16.

However, vehicle passes will be issued to VVIPs who can drive up the hill and park their vehicles. But the number of passes have been restricted this time.

The abhisheka at the temple will begin at 3.30 am and the darshan will start at 5.30 am and go on till 11.30 am. If the crowd of devotees is long then the timing will be extended until everyone gets an opportunity to offer puja.

Beef row: Progressive associations warn of counter protests

Mysuru, June 29 (RKB&US)- "Choice of food is a democratic right and vested interests in BJP are blowing an insignificant issue unnecessarily for political mileage," said former Mayor Purushotham. He was addressing a press conference organised by Pragathipara Sanghatenegala Okkuta at Pathrakarthara Bhavan here this morning.

Referring to the eating of beef at a function in Kalamandira premises here recently, Purushotham said that it was just a symbolic protest to indicate freedom of food which has been hyped. He contended that there was no intention to hurt the sentiments of anybody and if proved, he was ready to apologise for the incident.

Continuing, Purushotham said that BJP activists by splashing cow urine in Kalamandira premises have indirectly triggered untouchability issue and a complaint in that regard has been registered with Jayalakshmipuram Police.

Purushotham warned of protest if opposition parties do not stop hyping the issue immediately. State Nayaka Welfare Forum President Dyavappa Nayaka, DSS Convenor Shambulingappa and leaders of other organisations were present.

Medical Course fees hiked by 10% in Govt., Pvt. Colleges

Move to implement increase for next three years

Bengaluru, June 29 - Pursuing medical education is a dream in the country that is becoming distant by the day. The reason is not only it is a tough course but also more importantly the fee structure is becoming prohibitive.

To prove this point, the State Government on Wednesday decided to hike the Medical Course fees in Government and Private Colleges by 10 per cent every year for three years, starting from this year.

Medical Education Minister Dr. Sharanaprakah Patil announced this yesterday after a meeting with representatives of private medical colleges. The revised fees for Government quota seats will be Rs. 77,000 (up from Rs. 70,000) while, for the institutional quota it will be Rs. 6.32 lakh (up from Rs. 5.75 lakh).

However, no decision has been taken with regard to hike for dental courses. A decision would be taken in this regard within two or three days.

Dr. Patil said that private college managements had argued that the course fees in other States is more than Rs. 10 lakh and hence demanded an increase. However, the Government was ready for only 10 per cent hike, he added.

Admissions would be based on State merit list of National Eligibility and Entrance Test (NEET). Counselling will begin by July 5. The Karnataka Examinations Authority (KEA) will conduct the counselling for seats in Government, Private and Religious and Linguistic Minority colleges. In the case of Deemed Universities, counselling will be conducted by Directorate General of Health Services.

350 seats added

This year, additional 350 seats will be available in Government Medical Colleges for MBBS aspirants. In Government Medical Colleges in Shivamogga, Hassan, Bidar, Belagavi, Raichur and Mandya the number of seats has been increased from 100 to 150, while at Karnataka Institute of Medical Sciences, Hubballi, the intake will be up from 150 to 200.

State set to table toned-down Anti-Superstition Bill: Revenue Minister

Bengaluru, June 29 - After delaying it for over four years, the State government will finally table the controversial Karnataka Evil, Inhuman and Superstitious Practices Prevention and Eradication Bill. However, the ruling Congress has decided to tone-down certain provisions of the Bill.

Banning several superstitious practices, including made snana, astrology and animal sacrifices, will be dropped from the draft Bill, according to Revenue Minister Kagodu Thimmappa. A Cabinet sub-committee, headed by Thimmappa, drafted the Bill and referred it to the Law Department for finalising various provisions.

"A final draft as envisaged by the committee members has been sent to the Law Department and soon it will be placed before the Cabinet for approval. Subsequently, it will be presented in the Assembly. The government is committed to bring the legislation and it will be tabled in the House come what may," Thimmappa said.

He said the committee has proposed changes and leniency on some of the practices. "The superstitions cannot be eradicated in one go or by bringing in a legislation. Awareness against such practices has to come from within. However, we have been slightly accommodative on certain practices such as astrology, vaastu, numerology, horoscope reading and others. But there is no compromise on punishing astrologers, who resort to threatening, extortion and cheating in the name of beliefs. Such elements will be dealt with severely," the Minister said.

The original Bill envisaged banning practices and customs such as human sacrifice, exorcism, black magic, witchcraft, aghori, made snana, rituals with self-inflicted injuries, throwing of infants from a height on a bed of thorns, parading women in the nude, sexual exploitation by invoking supernatural powers and killing animals by biting their neck.

Dhruthi Venugopal selected for Indian women's tennis team

New Delhi, June 29- Mysuru girl Dhruthi T. Venugopal has been selected to represent India in the Asian Indoor Games in Turkmenistan. The women's team will have Ankita Raina, Riya Bhatia, Dhruthi Venugopal and Prarthana Thombare.

The Indian tennis players will get another platform to make an impact in the fifth Asian Indoor and Martial Art Games to be staged in Ashgabat, Turkmenistan, from Sept. 17 to 27.

Since the Games clash with the Davis Cup World Group play-off to be staged in Canada from July 15 to 17, India will not be able to field some of its best men players.

Thus, it will be an opportunity for Vishnu Vardhan, Sumit Nagal, Sidharth Rawat, Vijay Sundar Prashanth to assert their class in singles, doubles and mixed doubles. Vishnu Vardhan has an Asian Games mixed doubles silver with Sania Mirza. Equally, Prarthana Thombare had won the women's doubles bronze in the last Asian Games in Incheon, Korea, with Sania.

From each country, two players can compete in singles and field one doubles team each in the men's and women's section, apart from one mixed doubles team.

The Indian tennis team will have former national champion Ashutosh Singh as the captain and coach. The Asian Indoor and Martial Art Games will also feature athletics, 3x3 basketball, belt wrestling, billiards sports, bowling, chess, track cycling, dance sport, equestrian, futsal, ju-jitsu, kick boxing, kurash, muay thai, samba, short course swimming, taekwondo, traditional wrestling and weightlifting.

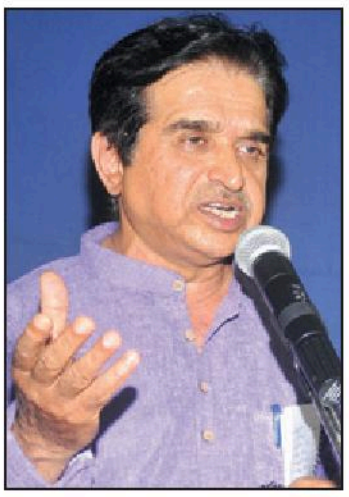
Narada was world's first journalist, says RSS scribe



D.G. Lakshman

Mysuru, June 29 (YDS&BCT)- Vedic Sage Narada, famous in Hindu mythology as a travelling musician and storyteller, who carries news and enlightening wisdom, was the world's first journalist, opined D.G. Lakshman, former Editor of 'Hosa Digantha' and 'Vikrama' organs of RSS.

He was speaking on "Freedom of Expression and Contemporary Journalism" at a programme organised by Vishwa Samvaada Kendra on the occasion of Sage Narada Jayanti at Madhava Krupa on JLB Road here yesterday.

"Hermann Friedrich Mogling, a German missionary from the Basel Mission who spent most of his career in Karnataka, started 'Mangaluru Samachara,' the first Kannada newspaper. This is the reason why we recall Mogling's contributions every year on July 1 celebrated as "Journalists' Day." Unfortunately, we don't recall the name and contribution of Narada, who was the world's first and superior journalist," he said.

Lakshman said that Kannada poet D.V. Gundappa, who was also a famous journalist, had mentioned Narada as the world's first journalist in his book 'Vrutta Patrike' which was published in 1928. It is apt to celebrate Narada Jayanti as Journalists' Day, he said.

D.V. Gundappa served as a Reporter and Editor of 'Mysore Times'. "He did not have a formal degree in journalism and chose the profession to earn a living. As a profession, he laid certain basic principles for journalism. Post-Independence era, journalism became a source of employment not so much a service to society.

"A journalist does not belong to any caste or religion. His mind should not be influenced by ideologies and only facts must be sacred for him," he said.

Star of Mysore Editor-in-chief K.B. Ganapathy presided over the programme. RSS Karnataka South Region Sangh Chalak M. Venkataram was present.

Quarry linked to Mandya MP penalised

C.S. Puttaraju

Mandya, June 29 (NG)- Mandya JD(S) MP C.S. Puttaraju and his stone quarry business, in which his nephews are partners, has come under the scanner with the Department of Mines and Geology slapping a fine of Rs. 90 lakh for carrying on illegal mining in the deemed forest area of Pandavapura taluk.

The Department issued a notice to all quarry owners, including MP Puttaraju and his nephews C. Ashok and C. Shivakumar, the owners of STG Stone Crushers, to pay a fine of Rs. 40,68,828 for continuing to mine after the lease period had lapsed.

The remaining Rs. 50 lakh penalty was imposed on 16 other quarries reportedly owned by Mysuru City Corporator Nataraj (Rs. 2,31,488), Rizwan (Rs. 2,70,900), Narasimhegowda (Rs. 2,65,212), K.S. Nagaraj (Rs. 3,15,000), R.T. Dinesh (Rs. 3,23,616), Narasimhegowda (Rs. 2,98,350) and others.

K.R. Ravindra, an RTI activist from Mandya, had recently filed a complaint with the Karnataka Lokayukta against Puttaraju, alleging illegal stone quarry mining in Baby Betta Amrut Kaval, a deemed forest area in Pandavapura taluk.

Ravindra, in his complaint, had also accused officials of failing to take legal action against illegal stone quarrying. Following the complaint, K.M. Nagabushan, a senior Geologist with the Mines and Geology Department, issued notices to all stone quarry owners to pay the fine, failing which legal action would be taken against the defaulters. The penalty notices were issued to the units for mining beyond the lease period of 2013, it is learnt.

Meanwhile, RTI activist Ravindra alleged that officials have imposed the fine with retrospective effect fearing that they would face a probe by Lokayukta for colluding with stone quarry owners.

He demanded that the Mandya District Administration conduct a survey a Baby Betta and other Government land in order to have a clear picture on encroachment of forest lands in Chinakurali and surrounding villages of Pandavapura taluk.

'GST needs to be understood well'

GST Migration Centre opens at MIA

Mysuru, June 29 (US&MTY)- Mysore Industries Association (MIA) had organised an awareness programme on Goods and Services Tax (GST) at its premises in Metagalli here yesterday.

Inaugurating the programme, MLA and MIA President Vasu said that GST was being introduced for the first time after Independence and a lot of awareness programmes should be held for the public to understand the merits of GST.

Speaking on the occasion, District Industries Centre (DIC) Joint Director H. Ramakrishnegowda opined that many entrepreneurs were still ignorant of GST modalities and they need to be groomed well.

Appreciating the GST system, MIA Vice-President Umesh K. Shenoy said that GST would bring a uniform taxation system in the country.

Briefing the gathering, Joint Commissioner of Commercial Taxes B.N. Giriyannanavar said that the Government has allowed people to pay tax as per the old VAT system for July and August and it would be inevitable to pay tax later on only as per GST.

Speaking on the newly-opened GST Migration Centre at the Association premises, MIA Secretary Suresh Kumar Jain said that the Centre would function daily from 10.30 am to 5.30 pm.

He asked all entrepreneurs, who are migrating from VAT to GST, to approach with all necessary documents to obtain free service. Several entrepreneurs participated in the meeting.

Abhinav Khare

The case dates back to March 2015 where a case of assault was booked against Khare at Nazarbad Police Station based on a complaint given by T.C. Rajendra, a resident of Yadavagiri. The complainant has alleged that Khare, as the SP, summoned him to his office and assaulted him on March 8 in connection with the dues he owed Rita, a 55-year-old woman.

Acting on the complaint, the Nazarbad Police had filed a 'B' Report (B Report is, as it is generally called, is the report filed by the Police that there is nothing to investigate and the complaint is a mistaken fact as provided under 157(b) of CRPC. Once this is accepted, the case is closed) and Anita Rajendra had approached the State Human Rights Commission.

In his order passed on May 25, 2017, former Judge C.G. Hungund, Member of the Human Rights Commission, stated that Abhinav Khare had no reason or jurisdiction to intervene in the case and he could have asked the complainant (Rita) to approach the Mysuru City Police Commissioner to get her grievance addressed.

While the person who was assaulted and the petitioner (Anita Rajendra) can approach the Courts questioning the Police 'B Report,' it is clear that Abhinav Khare has caused mental and physical harm to the victim. The chances of Police filing a 'B Report' to favour a higher officer cannot be denied, Hungund has observed. The Human Rights Commission has asked Additional Chief Secretary, Home Department to take Department disciplinary action against Abhinav Khare and submit a report to it within three months.

WORD OF THE DAY

Tristful

Pronunciation: TRIST-ful.
Meaning: Sad, melancholy.
Origin: The Middle English word trist, from which tristful is derived, means "sad." Today, we spell this word triste (echoing the spelling of its French ancestor, a descendant of the Latin tristis), whereas tristful has continued to be spelled without the e. Is there a connection between triste ("sad") and tryst ("a secret rendezvous of lovers")? No. Tryst also traces back to a Middle English trist, but it is a different word, a noun that is a synonym of trust. This other word trist eventually fell into disuse, but before doing so, it may have given rise to a word for a station used by hunters, which in turn led to tryst.
Example: "Oberlus was at least an accomplished writer, and no mere boor; and what is more, was capable of the most tristful eloquence." — Herman Melville, The Piazza Tales, 1856. "I've been dreading the moment I wake. Waking is a tristful business for the man who reflects." — Howard Jacobson, The Independent (London), 27 Nov. 2010.

THE ODD WORD

Timbrology

Study of postage stamps.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Take down a peg or two

Meaning: To 'take (or pull, or bring) down a peg (or two)' is to lower someone's high opinion of themselves; to reduce the pride of someone; to humble someone.
Origin: Various quantities and qualities have been measured by the use of pegs. It has been suggested that the pegs in question here were those used to regulate the amount of drink taken from a barrel, or those that controlled the hoisting of the colours (flags) of ships. Either of these might be correct although, like the 'yards' of 'the whole nine yards', 'pegs' could relate to many things.
Example: It is interesting though that all the early citations of the phrase have a religious context; for example: Pappe with An Hatchet, 1589 - "Now haue at you all my gaffers of the rayling religion, tis I that must take you a peg lower." Joseph Mead's Letters, 1625 - "A-talking of the brave times that would be shortly... when... the Bishop of Chester, that bore himself so high, should be hoisted a peg higher to his little ease." Samuel Butler's Hudibras, 1664 - "We still have worsted all your holy Tricks,... And took your Grandees down a peg."
